Medical waste found on Bay Beach

BY D.C. HARVILL

1988 may be best remembered as the year of garbage in the environment, with, among other things, the notorious barge that could not find a spot to dump its load of refuse and the East Coast being plagued by beaches littered with medical waste.

And, as the year comes to a close, Hancock County has not been spared from this potential threat to its health and peace of mind.

Tuesday afternoon a New Orleans teacher, Gretchen Kemp, visiting relatives who live on North Beach, discovered hypodermic syringes washed ashore on a Bay St. Louis beach while she was walking her dog.

An inspection of the beach on the south side of Cowan Point by Sergeant Chuck James of the Bay St. Louis Police Department late Tuesday turned up 45 of the syringes.

Fearing, due to an abundance of sea foam and failing light, he had not found all the syringes that had washed up, James returned to the beach Wednesday morning and found three more that overnight had been pushed onto higher ground by high tide and waves.

"There's really nothing we can do, they're just common B-D insulin syringes like you can buy anywhere," James said.

The syringes were inspected Wednesday afternoon by local health authorities and determined to be unused.

"We can tell by the size and shape that they are single dosage diabetes type needles. Each of them still had the end caps on the plunger and the needle and they were all dry on the inside, there was no residual material, so they are unused," said Dick Aiken, chief sanitarian for Hancock County with the Mississippi Department of Health.

"This appears to be an accidental thing," Aiken said. "They are all exactly alike, so I assume they were in a carton that fell off a boat and the carton fell apart in the water."

The syringes were incinerated at Hancock Medical Center, according to James.

Medical wastes have been found washed ashore at several other locations on the Coast this year, but in small and scattered amounts, according to Health and Pollution Control authorities.

An I-V bag and needle found on Petit Bois Island, offshore from Jackson County, during a beach clean-up day in September and syringes found on a Harrison County beach, had local environmentalists and health authorities concerned that someone might be dumping wastes offshore.

"We found some needles in Gulfport after a high tide accompanying a storm in August or September, but I don't think we've found anything of this number," said Lloyd Sharp, an environmental administrator with the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Commission.

"I don't think they've ever found out where they came from, we haven't a clue, they could have come from Louisiana, or Alabama, anywhere for that matter," he said.

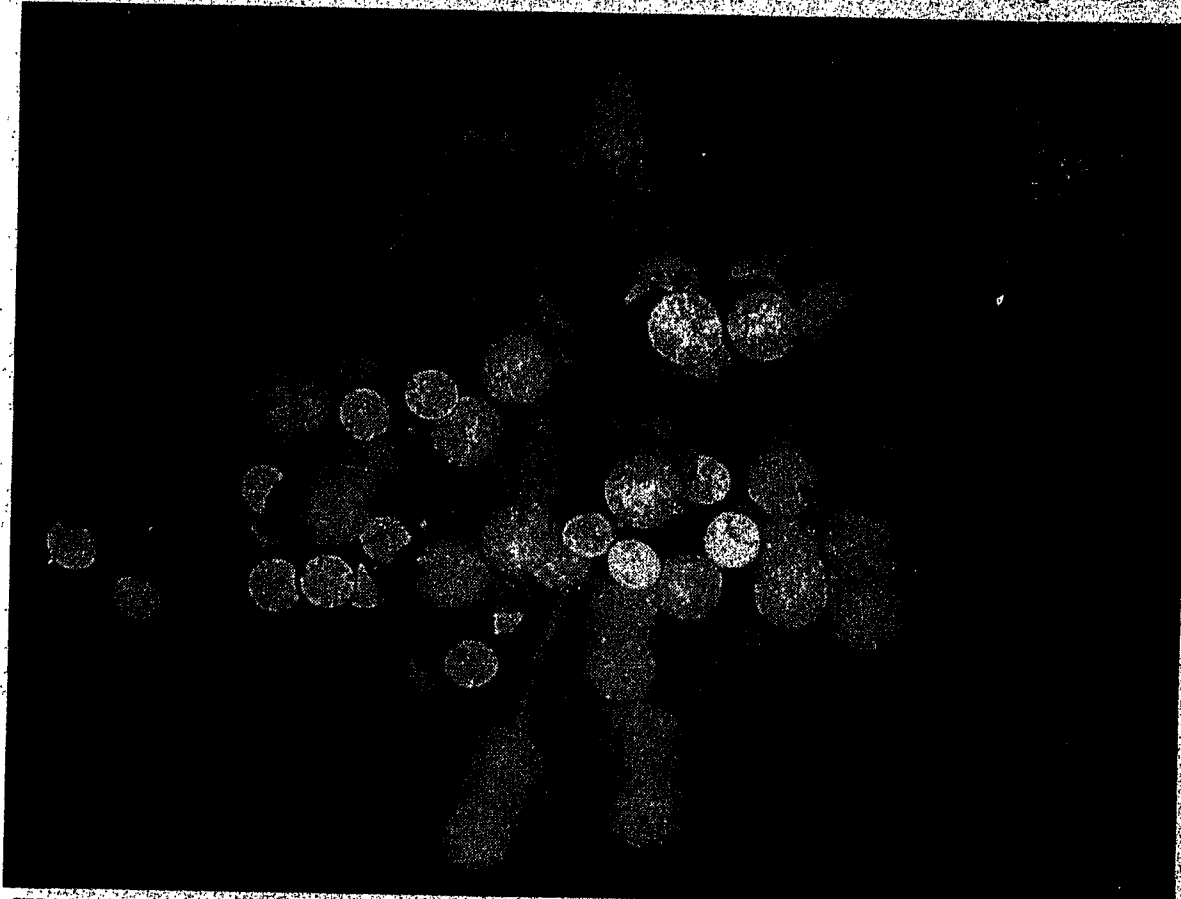

While offshore dumping of waste has been a common practice off the Atlantic coast, both the Air and Water Pollution Control Commission and the Department of Health said, to their knowledge, no such dumping takes place out of Mississippi.

Among the waste found on Atlantic beaches this summer were vials of AIDS-contaminating blood.

Free transportation offered celebrants

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Local law enforcement agencies are offering a free ride home to residents who feel they have had too much to drink celebrating the holidays.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson, Bay Police Chief Ray Murphy and Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn all report a resident only has to give their respective offices a call and transportation will be provided.

This is a service which has been offered residents for several years by the three law enforcement agencies.

Peterson stated, "Deputies would much prefer to drive someone home who has had too much to drink rather than have to fill out an accident report."

Peterson continued, "One positive I now notice is the fact that there are many who are wary of the dangers of drinking and driving, as some celebrants designate a person to drive who does not drink and this is very good."

Chief Murphy and Dorn indicated they wanted everyone to enjoy themselves and have a safe holiday and their respective departments would be happy to provide transportation for any celebrating residents of the city who felt they have had too much to drink.

The telephone numbers are: Bay Police 467-9221; Waveland Police 467-3669; and sheriff's office 467-5101.

Metro Drug Task Force to become active Jan. 1

BY D.C. HARVILL

The Hancock County Metropolitan Drug Task Force will begin action after the first of the year.

The task force is being funded by a federal grant plus matching funds from Bay St. Louis, Hancock County and Waveland.

Originally the force was to include an officer from each of the three entities but, because the program did not receive the funding expected, only two officers will be included, one from the Bay St. Louis Police Department and one from the Sheriff's office.

The task force received $24,000 in federal funds which is met by matching funds split equally between the three local agencies.

According to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, the task force will initially concentrate on drug enforcement, but may, at a later date branch into other areas.

The new enforcement "tool" is the result of an agreement between the three agencies which had been signed earlier this month.

The three department heads, Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn, Bay Chief Ray Murphy and Sheriff Peterson will act as a control group and will each have a vote in the groups deliberations. Bay St. Louis will serve as the task force's administrator, in which capacity it will be responsible for acquiring materials and applying for grants.

"Drug activity knows no boundaries," Peterson said.

"These officers will be able to pursue drug cases anywhere in the county including the two cities."

He explained that in the past

all three agencies may have been working independently on the same case, but now all drug cases will go directly to the task force.

Sverdrup Technology, Inc. at Stennis Space Center recently adopted Hancock North Central School and currently implementing various educational projects.

Coordinators for the program are John Kolodzie of Sverdrup and Charles Duffie of North Central.

Sverdrup is NASA's technical services contractor and provides data services, engineering and science support, propulsion test services and other technical services.

Projects currently being implemented at the school include one-to-one counseling, after school assistance, help with science projects and computer training.

Projects anticipated include a teacher management program on utilizing time effectively, motivational presentations for students with discipline and/or academic problems and a drop-out prevention program.

Sverdrup also suggested that they might provide guest speakers, sponsor field trips, provide counseling on drugs, sponsor educational tours for special interest groups, tutor children who need extra help, provide videos, teach job application skills and provide assistance in many other areas of education.

"We are very fortunate to have a company like Sverdrup working with us in our effort to reach out to community and businesses. We feel that benefits include a more prosperous environment for us all," said Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph.

Anyone interested in adopting a school should contact the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, coordinator for the project, at 467-9048.

OLG purchases St. Joseph property

BY D.C. HARVILL
 After nearly 20 years of trying, Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis Wednesday reacquired the property adjoining the church and on which the St. Joseph's Academy had stood.

According to files on the property, going back over 100 years, the church originally owned most of the just-over-seven-acre parcel and had deeded it to the Sisters of St. Joseph for the operation of the academy in 1869.

Since the academy closed in 1967, the church had attempted to regain the property with no success until Tuesday.

The sisters offered the property to the church in 1983 at $450,000 with a 10-day deadline. The property subsequently was purchased by The St. Louis, Ltd.

The property came into the hands of Merchants Bank in March of this year when it foreclosed on a loan made on the property by the company.

The property carries strong emotional ties for many OLG parishioners who attended the church parking area and a parish center.

The church, which currently serves 1450 families, must provide one-half of the $350,000 purchase price, to be matched academy, and those interested in preserving a shrine located near Bay Catholic Elementary on Second Street.

The academy's gym, which had allegedly had become the site of Satanic activities, was almost completely destroyed by fire on September 7.

The Shrine of Our Lady of the Woods was erected by the founder of the church, Father Stanislaus Buteaux in 1847.

Merchants Bank President W.R. Allison met with the Reverend Peter Mockler and fundraising committee members on the property Tuesday afternoon to turn over the deed.

"We are very pleased to make this transaction with the church," Allison said.

According to Mockler the church purchased the property in order to get the grotto (the shrine) back, to construct a science lab for Our Lady Academy,

Rafferty seeks Pass mayor position

Donald J. Rafferty has announced his Democratic candidacy for mayor of Pass Christian in the Jan. 10 special election.

The election is needed to fill the unexpired term of Jake Erwin, who resigned as mayor Nov. 29.

Rafferty is a 33-year-old attorney with a Gulfport-based law practice. He also is city judge in Pass Christian and serves on the city's Park Commission.

Rafferty said the themes of his campaign will be fiscal responsibility and effective and efficient government conducted in a professional manner.

"Fiscal responsibility is something we all have to be concerned with," Rafferty said. "You also have to have effective government. Efficient government goes along with that, and of course that comes right back to fiscal responsibility."

"We need some professionalism in that office," Rafferty said of the mayor's job. "The position is one of administration and public relations, and I can handle both of those."

"We need trust and stability in the mayor's office. We need someone who can help move us forward. The city needs sound financial management, and needs to do something with its resources," he said.

Rafferty said he has "a genuine and sincere desire to help the city...by keeping the best of the old values while remaining open to new ideas."

He said Pass Christian has factions that must work together if the city is to move forward.

DONALD J. RAFFERTY

A graduate of St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis, Rafferty received an associate's degree from the Perkinson campus of Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College and a bachelor's degree from Southeastern Louisiana University in Hammond. He received his law degree from the University of Mississippi law school.

If successful in his bid for mayor, Rafferty said he will continue to practice law but will be more elective in the cases he takes. He said he would be a full-time mayor.

Rafferty's memberships include the American, Mississippi State and Harrison County bar associations, the Mississippi Criminal Defense Lawyers Association and the Mississippi Trial Lawyers Association. He also belongs to St. Paul's Carnival Association.

Rafferty is married to the former Susan Israel, and they have an infant daughter, Margaret.

nated blood. "Nothing I know of is going out of Mississippi," Sharp said. Most hospitals dispose of their medical waste by incineration. There are numerous sources of such waste.

"We are concerned but not alarmed," he concluded.

"Everyone who witnesses any kind of dumping should report it to the police," James said. "He have a beautiful area here but if people don't wake up we're going to spoil it."

Anyone finding medical waste should leave it alone and call the police. With the threat of AIDS and other contaminants, there is no way they should handle it, James said.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It is surprising what can happen when a number of residents on a street get together and act as a group.

A prime example was several years ago when the residents of Mollere Drive came along with the idea of a Christmas Card Lane. The tradition has continued and it is one of the better decorated streets of the area.

Every year many of the area residents and even those from other cities drive through Mollere Drive to see the wonderful Christmas Card displays.

This year, the residents of Carroll Avenue in Bay St. Louis got together and decided to have a Luminarias Block on Christmas Eve.

Gregory Kergosien, I am told, came up with the idea for Carroll Avenue.

The tradition began in the old Southwest, and sprang up from the belief among the older folk that the Christmas Child wanders softly through the night on Christmas Eve and blesses all who set a light to guide his steps. Their little lights were little wood fires, which they called luminarias.

I visited Carroll Avenue on Christmas Eve and was surprised at how nice it was to see all the lights lining both sides of the avenue.

The bags containing sand and a small candle were all placed about five feet apart down both sides of the long block.

There were people driving and even many parked their autos on Beach Boulevard and walked down the avenue to get a first hand view.

On Christmas Day I heard several folks comment about the Carroll Avenue Christmas display. We hope it is something which continues.

There are some residents and business owners who put a little extra effort in decorating for the holidays.

Each year the Bay-Waveland Garden Club selects winners in a Christmas Lighting and Decorating Contest. The only requirement is for a residence or business to be registered for the contest.

The winners for 1988 in Bay St. Louis in order of finish were, James Austin Sr., 1009 Spanish Trail; Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Hinson, 524 Eighth St.; and Norman Hader, 127 Washington St.

Waveland entries in the same order were, John Hayward, 920 S. Beach Boulevard; and Charlotte Tartavouille, 1200 St. Joseph St.

Those receiving honorable mentions were Dennis Freeman, 571 Easterbrook St.; Charlene Rutledge, 313 Victoria St.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stiglet, 434 Main St.; Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Ladner, 506 Esplanade and Charlene Moran, Arcola.

Commercial entries first place went to Adams' Lorraine Flower Shop, Uman Avenue and second place went to Seymour's Jewelry and Gifts, MarkeTown Shopping Center. Honorable mentions in commercial went to Yesterdays Treasures, 209 Main St., and Bay Renaissance 209 1/2 Main St.

We are grateful to the above for that little extra effort to help make Christmas brighter for our area.

We thank each of them for taking the time to decorate their residences and businesses. Believe me, it take a lot of time.

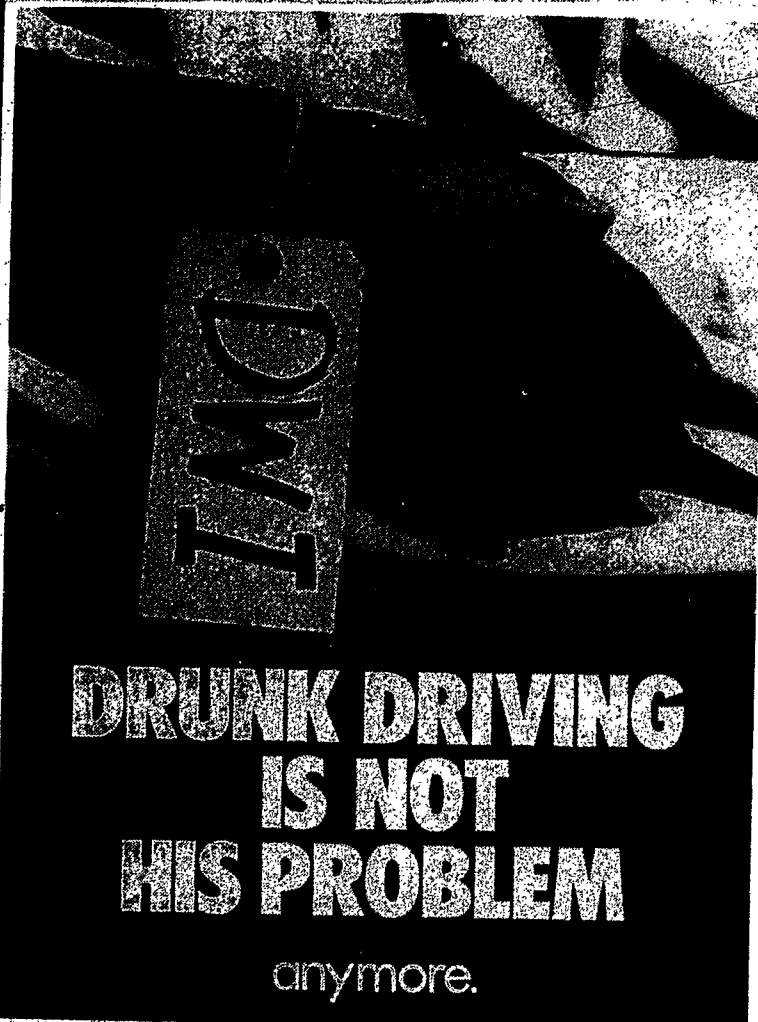

We surely had some bad weather in our area for several days before Christmas, the rain and fog made it dangerous to be traveling.

What a contrast in weather for Christmas Day, temperatures in the 70's with blue skies and sunshine. We realize the weather was not as good in other areas of our country, but, we are fortunate to live in the climate we do.

I am already noting the extended length of time in our days since we have already passed the shortest day of the season.

Myself, I like the time of year with the longer days. As we approach 1989, it is hoped each of you will have a Happy and Safe New Year.

FROM THE CAPITOL

New system of government, a streamlined vehicle on the track of tomorrow

In just a few short days, the Mississippi Legislature will be returning to the State Capitol.

One of their first orders of business will be to deal with a situation that is muddled beyond belief, and that the way that state government currently operates.

For over 50 years, we have been debating, discussing and studying reorganization. In 1989, we have a real chance to create a system of state government that will be a streamlined vehicle on the track to tomorrow.

Reorganizing Mississippi's government will save money, but, more importantly, it will simply make government work more like a well-oiled machine rather than the rusty clunker it has become.

The two basic ways state government reorganization will work are:

* State agencies will become more accountable. We will finally know who is doing what within an agency.

* We will eliminate duplication of efforts by placing state agencies with the same duties under one roof.

Democracy flourishes when we have systems in place that invite accountability. Without checks and balances, government is no more than a shadow created by another shadow.

The recommendations that I am making would put state agencies with like responsibilities under 11 departments.

Right now, Mississippi has approximately 150 agencies, boards and commissions governed for the most part by about 700 policy makers.

State government reorganization would also allow us to be able to plan for the future. We must begin to work toward a common goal, rather than move separately in different directions when it comes to state government.

Presently, there is no coordination among state agencies. This means, in many cases, the planning policies of one agency might be in direct conflict with another.

The time has come for a change.

It was once said that change is inevitable and in a progressive state, change is constant.

State government reorganization is not an event, it is a process. This next year we must begin the process of making government work better. By doing that, we will ensure that we remain on the leading edge of progress for years to come.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Mississippi has ample share of corrupt politicians

Mississippi politicians may seem to be country bumpkins in comparison to the politicians in wealthier and more urban states, but our boys seem to be holding their own when it comes to taking graft.

Certainly 1988 was a bumper year in bringing Mississippi public officials, and some former officials, to bar for official corruption.

Coming on the heels of a litany of criminality by public officials that started cropping up in Mississippi 12 years ago, it is now evident we are far from being the corruption-free state that we once thought we were.

It is bitterly ironic that the first major instance of official corruption to surface in Mississippi in modern times occurred in the State Highway Department in 1976, and the most recent one involves a member of the Highway Commission.

When then State Highway Director E. L. Boteler was charged in 1976 and later convicted of embezzling $200,000 in highway funds there was shock and dismay among Mississippi officials.

Boteler had been a highly respected state legislator who was given the highway post to satisfy legislative leadership there would be a trusted watchdog over spending millions of dollars in a new highway program.

Now last week, Central District Highway Commissioner Sam Waggoner who had achieved a reputation as "Mr. Highways" after 21 years on the three-member elective commission, became the latest corruption casualty.

The 66-year-old Waggoner resigned in the face of federal charges that he got $127,000 in kickbacks between 1981 and 1985 from a highway materials supplier and failed to report $190,500 income over a three-year span.

Although Waggoner pleaded innocent to the charges in a four-count federal bill of information, he has already served notice he will plead guilty next week.

As a former professional engineer for the highway department, Waggoner in 1967 was considered a uniquely qualified person to win a seat on the highway commission. Historically the commission members were noted for being good politicians rather than professionals in highway construction.

Last May, Southern District Highway Commissioner Bob Joiner gave up his seat and pleaded guilty to a federal indictment charging him with extorting a $161,000 payoff from a road contractor and also falsely reporting his income.

Earlier, W. H. "Shag" Pyron, whom Joiner had defeated in the 1979 election, was found guilty of federal fraud and conspiracy charges arising from a mineral lease racket. Pyron, it is evident, cooperated with the U.S. Attorney and provided information that helped bring down Joiner and Waggoner.

Two weeks before Waggoner's demise, the feds struck in another Mississippi regulatory agency, the state Public Service Commission. Indicted on bribery and conspiracy charges were present Northern District Commissioner D. W. Snyder and former Southern District Commissioner Lynn Havens.

Snyder and Havens, who had resigned his seat on the PSC last January because of the federal probe, were linked by the charges to wealthy Texas oilman/businessman Travis Ward in a bizarre scheme growing out of Mississippi Power & Light Co.'s Grand Gulf nuclear plant $350 million rate case.

Even before Mississippians had time to digest the PSC debacle, Coast Dist. Atty. Glenn Cannon, a former football hero at Ole Miss, was arrested on federal charges of lying in a Dec. 6 federal bankruptcy proceeding.

Snyder, Havens and Cannon have all pleaded innocent and await trial in federal court. But the substance of the allegations against them is serious enough to further erode public confidence in public officials.

All of this comes on the heels of the FBI's two-year sting Operation Pretense which thus far has resulted in kickback charges against 57 county supervisors in 25 Mississippi counties. Already some 42 supervisors have pleaded guilty and another seven or so have been convicted.

Does this mean that corruption by public officials in Mississippi has only existed for the past 12 years? Hardly.

It evidently was always there, but left to our own devices, we failed to root it out until the strong arm of the federal government began to crack down on state corruption.

We can't continue to depend upon the feds to combat our home-grown white-collar crime. At least the 1988 Legislature finally gave the state attorney general some tools to work with.

Changes made in birth certificates

As of Jan. 1, Mississippi birth certificates will have a new look. Moms and Dads can expect to fill out a form for their infant that is a bit more detailed than those of the past, yet more beneficial.

Every ten years, the National Center for Health Statistics reviews and adopts new U.S. Standard Certificates for the recording of vital events. For the past five years, the center has worked to change the existing birth certificate.

Parents can now indicate on the certificate if they want to request a social security card for their baby. If so, the Mississippi State Department of Health will process the birth certificate and send necessary information to the social security administration. Social security will then issue the child's number.

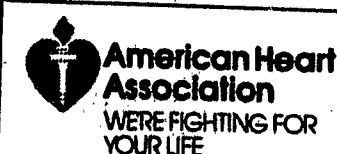

Parents will be spared the inconvenience of making application to the social security administration and paying $5 for a certified birth certificate that must accompany the application. The social security administration will save time and effort by not having to review and process each application.

"This is a wonderful example of cooperation between state and federal agencies," said State Health Officer Dr. Alton B. Cobb. "We are happy to be a part of this special project."

Other new items on the birth certificate include the social security number of both parents; the date of birth of both parents rather than the age; clinical estimate of gestation; if mother is now widowed or divorced; risk factors for the pregnancy; method of delivery; obstetric procedures; if mother was transferred prior to delivery; abnormal condition of the newborn; and if the infant was transferred.

"We realize physicians and hospitals may have a few more spaces to fill, but the new birth certificates are more advantageous overall. We hope physicians and hospitals will help us by insuring the certificate is as complete as possible and is sent to us on time," Cobb said. "Of course, any medical information on the birth certificate will remain confidential and will be used only for statistical purposes," he said.

BARGE DELIVERED— Gulf Coast Fabrication Inc. of Pass Christian has delivered the first of three 300' x 72' warehouse barges for Scott Paper Company and McAllister Towing of New York. The warehouses on deck can carry 360,000 cubic feet of wood pulp in bales or about 8,000 tons. They will carry the pulp from Nova Scotia, Canada to Chester, Pa. for processing. The hydraulic side door/ramps permit tractor trailers and forklifts to be driven on board for loading. Gulf Coast Fabrication operates shipyards in Pass Christian and Port Bienville.

Textron Marine Systems wins multiyear LCAC contract

Textron Marine Systems (TMS), Division of Textron Inc., has been awarded a competitive contract by the U.S. Navy to provide a full spectrum of engineering support and logistics management services for the Landing Craft, Air Cushion (LCAC) program.

The contract covers a four-year period through 1992 and contains options which, when exercised, could result in a total contract value of more than $60 million.

The initial increment of funding for work to be performed in 1989 is $9.1 million. TMS President John J. Kelly stated that word of this award had been received this date from the offices of Senator J.

Bennett Johnston and Congressman Robert Livingston. This follows the Navy announcement on Tuesday that Textron Marine Systems had been awarded a contract to provide 12 additional LCACs and to manage the procurement of LCAC major equipment with a potential contract value of more than $40 million.

In addition to engineering and logistics management support, TMS will provide operational and maintenance training for U.S. Navy personnel, procure spare and repair parts to support fleet operations, and provide depot repair services. The contract will be managed at TMS headquarters in New Orleans with a major portion of the work being performed at the TMS facility at the Naval Coastal Systems Center in Panama City, Fla.

As the developer of the support system for LCAC, TMS has provided complete logistics support services to the Navy since the initial LCAC was delivered to the fleet in December 1984. Textron Marine Systems was also awarded additional contracts earlier this year for more than $6 million to develop operational and maintenance training hardware and curriculum for the LCAC program.

TMS President J. J. Kelly noted that "the inherent high reliability we designed into the craft coupled with the logistics support system we developed has resulted in a very successful fleet introduction period for the LCAC." The Pacific Fleet completed its third six-month LCAC deployment to the Western Pacific this week and will begin its fourth deployment in early 1989. The Atlantic Fleet will initiate its first deployment in the near future.

boats tied up at a Bay area dock is featured on the calendar's December page.

In addition to the picture, there is a write-up on Hancock County. The county's historical heritage, seafood industry and contributions to the nation's space program are chronicled.

"Blossman employees are proud of the communities they serve," said Blossman President John R. Blossman. "This calendar allows them to show off their home areas to their fellow workers in other Blossman locations, and to our customers from North Carolina to Florida to Louisiana."

Blossman's 470 employees serve over 90,000 families with propane for their heating, cooking, water heating and other needs from more than 50 locations in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina and South Carolina. It also provides propane to farms, industries and commercial establishments throughout the Southeast. Blossman Gas is unique among regional propane retailers in that it is headquartered in the Southeast and is partially owned by its employees.

Founded in Gulfport, in 1951, Blossman Gas has been serving customers in Hancock County since the mid-50s. The area had enough customers by 1961 that a retail facility was opened in that year on Highway 90 West in an area that is now part of Waveland. The branch manager for Blossman Gas in Bay St. Louis/Waveland is Chester Dubuisson.

Inexpensive decorating ideas to brighten homes, old or new

Whether you are getting established in a new home or remodeling a room, cost is a major factor in designing and furnishing. Knowing several cost-cutting tricks can work to your advantage.

1. Wallpaper rooms with a pattern to reduce or eliminate the need for wall hangings. For instance, a floral design can simulate a bouquet or garden, requiring only the simplest window treatment or none at all.

2. One way to have a luxurious look in your room without spending a great deal of money is to build the color scheme around the colors of the print in a fabric known as a "lead fabric." The background color is the basic color of your scheme. One or two throw pillows will add a look of richness to the entire room. Use the lesser colors in the print to complement the scheme.

3. Rather than buying furnishings quickly with the chance they may not please you later, make selections carefully. Focus on simple pieces that will fit into many different schemes and be adaptable over the years. Select pieces that will fit into many rooms and serve many functions.

4. Purchase a smaller sofa, six to seven feet long. It will cost less, use less fabric and be easier to fit into almost any situation.

5. Invest money where it counts the most. Not in small, expensive accessories (which in truth, are "extras") but rather into that simply designed but well-made coffee table.

6. Instead of buying a large expensive area rug, buy less expensive wall-to-wall carpeting, and place a smaller rug over it.

7. If just starting out, it is much wiser to get one or two very good, well-designed pieces and fill in with less expensive items. These early purchases should be flexible in use and placement. With a few good pieces, a feeling of quality and worth is established in the room and then fill-ins can be all manner of inexpensive pieces and accessories.

8. Occasionally inexpensive pieces of furniture, whether old or new, can be given a definite lift with a coat of paint. Use painted pieces sparingly and use care when choosing the pieces to paint.

9. For very little money, plants can do wonders for a room. A few large plants can complete a rather sparsely furnished interior. For design purposes, it is better to use a few large plants than several small ones, and maintenance is easier. Always determine the light, temperature and moisture requirements of possible plant choices. Keep in mind plants must receive the proper care to remain healthy and add to your interior design scheme.

10. Accessories add the finishing touches to rooms. Wall accessories, as with all accessories, need to be well chosen and correctly placed. Good art is not the only source for wall hangings. Try hanging a colorful rug or quilt. A collection of baskets can be as attractive as a collection of artwork.

EARLY MAMMOGRAPHY AND BREAST SELF EXAM BENEFITS

Monday, January 9/NOON

Early detection is the KEY to success in the battle against breast cancer. Mammograms can detect tumors up to three years before they can be found by a physical exam. Along with mammography, breast self examination (BSE) is of vital importance. Early detection gives you a choice between major surgery (mastectomy) or minor surgery (lumpectomy). Free information on the mammography procedure and classes on BSE, taught by a trained nurse, are offered in this session. The Breast Diagnostic Center at SMH offers routine baseline mammograms for $59 (includes Radiologist's Professional Fee). THIS EDUCATION IS A MUST FOR WOMEN OF ALL AGES.

All classes are free and are held in the Women's Resource Suite.

Enjoy New Year's Day by preparing menu early

Make New Year's holiday entertaining a little less frantic and a lot more enjoyable by serving food that can be prepared ahead of time. Using the microwave oven for initial preparation helps ease the time crunch even more.

When planning an open house or cocktail party choose an appetizer such as Mini-Beef Appetizers with Mustard Sauce. This recipe features a boneless beef tip roast which can be microwaved the day before the party. In addition, it offers the convenience of using the meat and sauce ingredients to make two attractive hors d'oeuvres—mini-beef sandwiches and vegetable roll-ups.

High quality beef roasts, such as a beef tip roast, brown naturally in the microwave oven. An herb rub adds flavor and helps keep the meat moist during cooking. A three-pound beef tip roast will cook in about one hour, a timesaving of at least one-third compared to conventional roasting.

Avoid overcooking a beef roast in the microwave oven by shielding the edges with small pieces of foil and by checking doneness at the minimum time. Use a rapid response thermometer to check the temperature for degree of doneness.

After cooking the roast, refrigerate at at least 24 hours before the party to ensure easier carving. If carefully wrapped and stored in the refrigerator the cooked roast will keep up to five days. The mustard sauce and cut-up vegetables also can be stored in tightly covered containers in the refrigerator a day ahead.

On the day of the party simply assemble the mini-beef sandwiches and vegetable wrapped appetizers just before guests arrive. Arrange the vegetable roll-ups on a platter around a bowl and the mustard-sauce for eye appeal and ease in dipping. The mini-beef sandwiches can be stacked on an attractive platter or in a napkin lined basket.

Mini-Beef Appetizers

with
Mustard Sauce
Preparation time: 30 minutes
Cooking time: 1 hour to 1 hour, 6 minutes
Chilling time: 4 to 6 hours or overnight, if desired

3-pound beef tip roast
2 cloves garlic
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon crushed rosemary leaves
1/2 teaspoon crushed thyme leaves
mustard sauce*
12 small dinner rolls, split lettuce leaves
1 zucchini, cut into 1/4-inch thick and 3-inch long strips
1/2 red bell pepper, but into 1/4 inch thick and 3-inch long strips

Smash garlic and pepper with back of French knife to form paste. Add rosemary and thyme; mix well. Spread herb mixture evenly over beef tip roast. Place roast, fat side down, on rack in microwave-safe dish. Cover with waxed paper and microwave at medium-low or 30 percent power (approximately 200 watts). Allow 20 to 22 minutes per pound. Rotate dish 1/4 turn every 20 minutes; invert roast at midpoint of cooking time. Shield edges that appear to be overcooking with small pieces of foil. Remove roast when a meat thermometer, inserted into the thickest part, registers 5 degrees less than doneness desired (rare to medium; 104 degrees to 160 degrees). Tent roast with foil and allow to stand 10 minutes. Cover roast and refrigerate 24 hours for easier carving. Carve roast into thin slices.

To prepare mini-sandwiches: Prepare mustard sauce; reserve. Use approximately 12 roast beef slices to prepare mini-sandwiches; reserve remaining beef for vegetable-wrapped appetizers. Spread 1 teaspoon mustard sauce on each half of roll. Layer small lettuce leaf and thin slice of cooked beef on bottom half of roll; close with roll top.

To prepare vegetable-wrapped appetizers: Use remaining roast beef slices to prepare vegetable-wrapped appetizers. Wrap one slice of cooked beef around 2 to 3 zucchini and red bell pepper strips. Serve with remaining mustard sauce. Yield: 12 mini-sandwiches and 18 vegetable-wrapped appetizers.

Note: Cooking times are based upon a full power output of approximately 650 watts. If your microwave oven has a lower or higher power wattage than 650 watts, cooking times may have to be adjusted. Consult your oven manufacturer's instruction book.

Mustard Sauce*
Preparation time: 10 minutes
Chilling time: 1 hour or overnight

1 cup sour half and half

1/4 cup finely chopped walnuts, toasted

4 teaspoons coarsely ground Dijon-style mustard

1/4 teaspoon salt

Combine sour half and half, walnuts, mustard and salt. Cover tightly and refrigerate until serving. Spread on mini-rolls and serve with vegetable-wrapped mini-appetizers. Yield: 1 1/2 cups.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

Here's wishing a Happy New Year to one and all—and I hope that your Christmas was as wonderful as mine!

Ours was our family get-together in Mandeville, with the two eldest grandsons home from college in South Carolina, and enjoying family get-togethers with their four younger cousins and their elders, and the eldest of all, yours truly!

We celebrated throughout the holiday time, feasting and laughing, reminiscing, remembering the loved one not with us, just as most of us do, especially at this time of the year.

And, also as most of us do, we talked of the New Year, and of plans and hopes. And, of course, we reminded each other to be sure to eat black-eyed peas on New Year's Day, to ensure good luck throughout the year—according to the old Southern custom of Hoppin' John at New Year's, a custom said to have originated in south Carolina, long years ago.

Not that I'm all that superstitious—oh, no?—but you may be sure that the turn of the old year's clock will find me ready with the black-eyed peas and rice! And, you might add cabbage, another celebrated "good luck for the new year" food—and put a dime under each plate, for good measure, to ensure a bit of wealth in the new year!

Some say that the name "Hoppin' John" came about because of the children, who would jump up from the table in impatience, and hop about; or that the servers would all but hop in their haste as they brought the dishes to the table. Whatever, here's:

HOPPIN' JOHN
(Some cooks combine the peas and rice into a sort of jambalaya, others prefer to serve the peas over rice, with dashes of hot pepper sauce atop).

1 lb. dry black-eyed peas
2 qts. water
1 medium onion, chopped
3/4 lb. salt pork or bacon, diced
2 or 3 dried hot peppers (optional)

2 Tblsp. butter or bacon drippings
Pepper to your taste, salt optional
1 cup raw rice

Soak the peas overnight, and drain. In large heavy pot, place peas with water to cover. Bring almost to boiling, then turn fire down.

Add the onion, salt pork or bacon, covered, for two hours or perhaps a bit longer, until the peas are soft, but not mushy, adding a little hot water if needed. Taste, and correct seasonings. Cook the rice, meanwhile, and serve the peas over rice—or add the rice to the peas, and simmer just a bit until the liquid is absorbed.

As for the hot peppers—I prefer jalapeno peppers—I crush them a bit, and add to the pot along with the other seasonings. Others prefer to serve the peppers "on the side" or not at all.

Shortcut holiday recipes for contemporary lifestyles

As the holidays roll around, we eagerly anticipate the traditional desserts synonymous with the season. Coconut cakes, pumpkin pies and jam cakes can all be found on dinner tables all over the South during the holiday season.

The Martha White Kitchen has taken these recipes and adapted them for today's lifestyles by:

—combining and streamlining steps to make recipes more convenient to prepare

—specifying already prepared ingredients to save time

—modifying the sizes of recipes from the large amounts our grandmothers prepared to more manageable sizes for today's smaller families.

Though the recipes may be more convenient to prepare, they still contain all the spices, ingredients and homemade flavor even your grandmother would be proud to serve.

One of the recipes featured in 'Holiday Traditions' is Pumpkin Chess Pie. The unique difference between this chess-like version and the traditional pumpkin pie is the Press 'n Bake Cream Cheese Crust.

Made from rich butter and cream cheese, this crust is prepared exactly as the name states. You just combine three ingredients, press the dough into a pie pan, fill and bake for a mouth-watering treat your family will love. This crust does not involve using a rolling pin.

PUMPKIN CHESS PIE
1 1/3 cups sugar
6 tablespoons (3/4 stick) butter or margarine, softened
1 cup canned pumpkin
1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons half and half
2 eggs

1 teaspoon vanilla
4 teaspoons Martha White Self-Rising Corn Meal Mix
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon each ginger, nutmeg and cloves

1 Press 'n Bake Cream Cheese Crust, below
Whipped cream, if desired
Preheat oven to 350 F. Cream sugar and butter with mixer. Add remaining ingredients, except crust and whipped cream; blend well. Pour mixture into prepared crust. Bake 40 to 45 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cool on wire rack. Good served chilled and topped with whipped cream.

PRESS 'N BAKE

CREAM CHEESE CRUST

1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, at room temperature
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter or margarine, softened
1 cup sifted Martha White All-Purpose Flour

Combine cream cheese and butter; blend well. Stir in flour. Refrigerate 30 minutes. Press dough into bottom and up sides of 9-inch pie pan. Flute edge as desired. Chill until needed for filling.

Let's Break A Holiday Tradition!

Don't
Drink
And Drive!

Drink
And Drive!

Every year at this time, we're barraged from all sides by "Don't drink and drive" messages. That's still the best advice — but unfortunately, not enough of us take it seriously. And, because we don't, hundreds of people will die in alcohol-related accidents during the Christmas and New Year's holiday period.

Christmas and New Year's traditionally a time of celebration. That means there are going to be lots of parties — and a scary number of inebriated drivers on our streets and highways.

If you care about yourself, you won't drink and drive. And, if you care about your friends, you won't let them drive while under the influence.

Let's break a holiday tradition — the tradition of carnage on our highways because of an alcohol-related accident! Watch out for the other guy and know your own limits and take care of yourself!

Let's let this tradition fade away into history!

This serious holiday message has been brought to you by the following community businesses who extend the warmest of holiday greetings to friends and neighbors everywhere:

County Forester

Turn unproductive land into a beautiful forest

"Oh well, I'll do it later." Sound familiar? Many of us are guilty of a little procrastination every once in a while. There is one thing in the forestry business that should not be done later—that's reforesting cutover timberland!

I can't over emphasize the importance of replanting cutover or unproductive forestland. Forestry is one of Mississippi's biggest businesses. Up to 40 percent of our industrial jobs are dependent on the forest. Two thirds of Mississippi's forestland is privately owned. My interest as a professional forester is in keeping this land productive and stocked full of trees. Such a goal is in your best interest, too. And you can help achieve it.

Do you, or your neighbor, own any cutover forestland that's growing up in a briar thicket? As far as I know, there's not much money in briars and persimmon bushes, but there is in pine and hardwood timber. If you're interested in a good investment, call me and we'll talk about how to turn an unproductive and unsightly tract of land into a lush and beautiful forest that will be worth quite a few dollars in the future.

There are numerous state and federal programs to assist financially in reforestation practices. The main need is to do it now, not later. Call me at 467-4727.

Endangered red wolves to be released on Horn Island

Two red wolves will be released on Jan. 4 on Horn Island as part of a five-year effort to obtain wild born and reared offspring from these endangered animals, according to a spokesman with the state Department of Wildlife Conservation.

The pair of wolves are two of only 89 remaining individuals of this species. They will be flown into Ocean Springs from the Alligator River National Wildlife Refuge in North Carolina.

Released under a cooperative program by the DWC, the Fish and Wildlife Service, and the National Park Service, the male and female wolves will be turned out on Horn Island in what biologists hope will be a successful program to breed red wolves in a controlled but wild setting in order to produce wild reared offspring.

If breeding is successful, the young pups will be captured and transported to the Alligator River National Wildlife Refuge in North Carolina where they will become part of a reintroduction program by the service.

Biologists are confident that the wolves should do well on Horn Island, a barrier island some 14 miles off the Mississippi coastline.

Located within the Mississippi pi District of the Gulf Islands National Seashore, the wilderness island should provide ideal habitat for the wolves due to the abundance of rabbits and nutria, both exotics to the island.

"While on Horn Island, studies will be conducted on the wolves to further understand their behavior, life-history, movements, and small prey relationships," explained DWC biologist Will McDearman of Jackson.

"We're hoping these investigations which the DWC wholeheartedly supports, will provide important and new knowledge which will advance future conservation programs intended to ensure the survival of this magnificent species."

McDearman said that the red wolf is currently considered to be extinct in the wild where it once ranged over most of the southeastern United States.

Authorities say that recreational visitors to Horn Island will not likely see or hear the wolves. Preferring to avoid contact with man, the shy red wolf is mostly a nocturnal and solitary animal that may live in a very small family group instead of packs.

A spokesman for Gulf Islands National Seashore said that the presence of the red wolf pair on Horn Island is totally compatible with camping, fishing, hiking, and other wilderness recreational activities enjoyed by the public.

Marine Resource Bureau relocated to Biloxi

The state Bureau of Marine Resources has a new home in Biloxi.

The bureau's administrative and law enforcement divisions will be moving under the same roof, with the new offices to be located in the old AT&T building at 2620 West Beach Blvd. just west of Edgewater Mall.

Since 1979, the administrative division has been housed in three buildings on the University of Southern Mississippi Gulf Park Campus in Long Beach. The Law Enforcement Division has been housed in an office at the intersection of Bay View Drive and Oak Street in Biloxi.

The administrative office buildings on the Gulf Park Campus will be placed back under control of the university. The old law enforcement office will be converted into a BMR laboratory.

The new BMR telephone number will be 385-5860.

Fishing license sales will be conducted out of the new offices Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Licenses will continue to be sold out of the bureau's Jackson County licensing station in the old Jackson County Health Department Building on U.S.

90 near the Alabama state line Monday through Sunday from 6 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Effective January 1, licenses in Pass Christian will be sold at Russell's Shell Station at the intersection of U.S. 90 and Davis Avenue.

mercial redfish catches to allow a large number of fish to survive to maturity."

Early results from the ongoing Mississippi study indicate the escapement rate from Mississippi waters back to the offshore waters is only about 2 percent, compared to the 30 percent escapement rate favored by the fisheries management community in the five Gulf states.

Prior to the recent release of the 500 tagged fish raised in MSU's ponds, GCRL personnel had successfully tagged and released 767 young redfish into Mississippi coastal waters. Tag returns to date indicate that fish tagged and released in Mississippi waters can migrate as much as 278 miles from the release point, and that they grow very rapidly during the warmer months of the year.

Larval red drum studies conducted by GCRL researchers show an average number of fish moving into Mississippi waters with a good rate of survival, but that by the time these young fish are recruited in to the fishery at the beginning of their second year of life, they are highly susceptible to the inshore fishery.

"If we are to maintain the Gulf red drum population, we must all work together," Dr. McIlwain stressed. "Only through studies such as those being carried out by the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory and other research agencies across the Gulf will we be able to monitor the success of regulations put into place to perpetuate this important recreational and commercial fishery resource."

Q. On February 23, 1847, Colonel Jefferson Davis' "Mississippi Rifles" confronted the Mexican Army at Buena Vista, Mexico. The Mississippians, outnumbered five to one, routed the Mexicans. What was Colonel Davis' famous battle cry of that day?
A. "Stand Fast, Mississippians!" is the motto still used today by the 1st Battalion, 155th Infantry, headquartered in McComb. The unit, formerly the 1st Mississippi Regiment, is the seventh oldest military unit in the United States.

Ole Miss blues music program featured on 'Nightline'

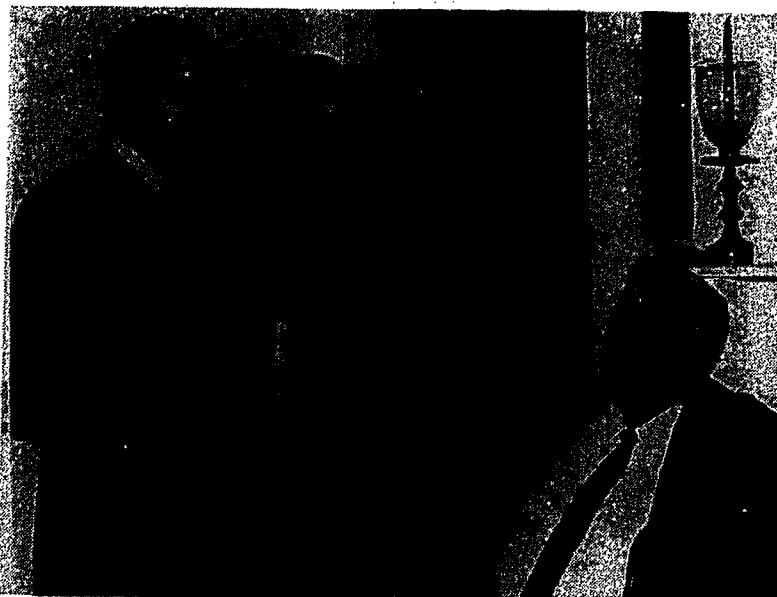

ABC's 'Nightline,' the late night current affairs program anchored by Ted Koppel, has scheduled a program on blues music and blues-related programs at The University of Mississippi for Friday, Jan. 6, according to Dr. Bill Ferris, director of the university's Center for the Study of Southern Culture.

Ferris, who hosted producer Steve Steinberg and a video crew on the Oxford campus recently, noted that the program could be pre-empted with little notice by breaking news events. In this case, it would be re-scheduled.

'Nightline' taped interviews in the John Davis Williams Library's Blues Archive, an international resource for blues music scholars. On campus, they interviewed several faculty and staff members, as well as students. The show focuses on the historical legacy of blues music and its modern-day practice and adaptations.

In addition to campus production, the team visited the Clarksdale area, taping a segment of Early Wright's legendary blues radio show and local performers in action. Wright has just been honored with the establishment of a scholarship in Southern Studies in his name at Ole Miss.

Producer Steinberg said Koppel with interview author Alex Haley and blues musician B. B. King for the program.

Team teaching

Making the grade at BJH

Special to the Echo
By LISA MONTI

An innovative approach to education called team teaching is getting high marks at Bay Junior High School, where the concept was put into practice this year. Bay Junior High is the first school in Hancock County to use the team teaching method of improving the educational process.

Team members say the new arrangement has opened lines of communication, improved morale and made them more effective in the classroom.

The basis for team teaching is a daily meeting of the core-subject teachers in each of the three junior high grade levels. The teams meet individually for one period each school day to review their students' progress, to identify problems and to discuss solutions.

The 40-minute sessions are conducted in an informal but structured manner. Each team, for example, has a leader, a secretary, and minutes are kept for each meeting.

Helen Simpson, the sixth-grade math teacher, is the leader of her team. She says, "We use the middle school approach, which is to treat sixth, seventh and eighth grade students differently from elementary and high school students. They don't have the freedom of high school, but they're not self-contained like elementary students. Middle school students have special problems, and we treat them like middle school students."

the team teaching has done is to give us a faculty meeting every day to coordinate and plan lessons, plan enrichment activities such as field trips and other extra things such as rewards. The team is able to get together to talk about a specific student who may be having difficulties such as an academic or medical problem. The teams help them to know more about the kids. One teacher may have insight to help the others cope and get the student going in the right direction. It also allows them to reschedule a child into another, more advanced section of science or math."

During a typical team meeting, the teachers evaluate their students' grades, level of class participation, behavior and daily work. The teachers also use several types of written reports to inform the parents of any progress or difficulties. Daily homework sheets and weekly progress reports are done as needed; student progress reports are prepared once every nine weeks.

Student performance is rated as "good," "satisfactory," or "must improve," with emphasis on working to potential, class preparation, behavior and absences or tardiness. Performance in daily work, test scores, class participation and cooperation are rated in general and in each of the core subjects.

A parent-teacher conference report explains the problem that has been identified by the teachers and outlines a plan for solving the problem. When appropriate, a student will be

We're more like a family, and the kids know it."

One offshoot of the meetings has been what the sixth grade teachers describe as interrelated curriculum. All of the teachers use newspaper reports to discuss current events such as the Olympics and then relate those events to the study of English, math and other core subjects.

Newspaper subscriptions are provided by Coast Electric Power Association which "adopted" Bay Junior High this year. The "Adopt-A-School" program matches businesses, organizations and individuals with schools and classes to improve the quality of education in the county.

Improved morale among teachers is another result of the team teaching approach, says Alison Taylor, the sixth grade science teacher, "Our attitudes are more positive. We have a better grip on discipline because discipline is consistent in all of our classes."

Team leader Simpson says, "We're more in control of our students now. If a problem arises, we know it. We can identify problems quicker as a team."

Parents, the team members believe, are receptive to this new approach to teaching. The team points out that there was 90 percent participation in a recent parent-teacher conference.

In addition to the support they receive from the school administrators and parents, the sixth grade team is quick to credit the teachers of the elective courses whose classes their students attend while the team meets each day. The classes which the students can elect to study include art, computer, band, home economics, physical education and shop.

As Debbie Moran, the sixth grade self-contained class teacher noted, the teachers of the elective classes are "the ones who make it happen. They make it possible for us to meet each day as a team."

With only half a school year completed, faculty members and school officials have seen the new teacher team approach produce positive results which they expect to continue.

Says Alliston, "Team teaching has helped teachers' morale. They had enthusiasm and good morale before, but they were limited on the time they had to get together. We're expecting good things; we've seen good things already. They're sharing ideas and know how to help our students."

"We're constantly talking about the problems and ways to increase motivation. We're more like a family, and the kids know it"—Lamb Team teaching has been successfully utilized in the Harrison and Pearl River counties' school systems for several years. Last year, a group of sixth grade teachers approached Dr. Roger Oge, superintendent of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District, about introducing the team concept in the local public school system. Oge sent the teachers to Long Beach to observe their classes and team meetings, and the junior high teachers say they returned "very impressed" by what they had seen and learned. After hearing their reports, Oge gave approval to begin team teaching in all three junior high grades. He and the other school administrators continue to support the new teaching tool. Bay Junior High team teachers credit Oge, Woody Alliston, their principal, and G. L. McRaney, the school's vice principal, with encouraging their efforts. Alliston observes, "One thing called into a team meeting to discuss problems or to receive praise from the teachers.

Says Simpson, "We're able to bring a child in at team meeting time and give him or her a pep talk or praise. We can deal with problems one-on-one in a conference with the child and with the parents. We've had some very effective conferences."

According to the teachers, the meetings give them an unprecedented opportunity to discuss their students' progress and problems. Says Jane Lamb, the sixth grade English teacher, "We talked to each other in the hall before, or when we had a chance, but now with our meetings every day, we feel we have the support of the team and increased communication with the administrators."

Lamb adds, "We're constantly talking about the problems and ways to increase motivation."

Self-contained class nurtures seeds of learning

Special to the Echo
By LISA MONTI

Administrators and faculty members are enthusiastic about the successful introduction this year of team teaching at Bay Junior High School. For some students, the new classroom approach has resulted in specialized attention to enhance learning and to help them reach their potential.

These students study in a "self-contained" classroom environment which is designed to give them a more intense and structured setting for learning. The goal is to "mainstream," or transfer, all of the students from the self-contained classes into the classes taught by the teacher teams.

Sixth and seventh grade students in the self-contained classes study their core subjects in one classroom rather than changing rooms for each period.

The two classes differ only in that the sixth grade has one teacher for all academic subjects, while the seventh grade has one teacher for each of the five classes. All students in the self-contained classes interact with the other students during two daily elective class periods, according to Debbie Moran, the sixth grade self-contained class teacher.

Moran says the self-contained classes were established this year as a result of the team teaching approach. "When we discussed the teams, we knew we were limited by state law as to the number of teachers and students per class. The self-contained classes were set up to handle the overflow and to provide special attention."

Students are selected for the self-contained classes based on teacher and parent recommendations and standardized test scores. Several students have already joined the team classes this year, she noted.

Moran teaches science, English, reading, math and spelling each day. Her students also take social studies and choose from such elective courses as physical education, computer, art, shop, home economics and band. She also participates as a member of the teacher team during their daily meeting which takes place when their students are in an elective class.

Moran has set up her classroom as a "community." She says, "The desks are our homes, the other students are our neighbors, and we're working on community cooperation in all of our classes."

The classroom has its own library, which Moran points out contains a collection of Newbery Medal-winning children's books.

Class members elect the only class officers at the sixth-grade level, which, according to Moran, allows the students to "practice life skills."

In preparation for the opportunity to transfer to the team class, Moran says her class "does whatever the other classes do, so that the transition is easy for them. We use the same lesson plans, but ours are more concentrated."

Her students also tackle extra activities outside the classroom, such as their recent project of planting grass at the entrance to the S. J. Ingram building which houses the sixth grade. The students dutifully stood guard for several days before class and during breaks to remind other students not to walk on their newly-planted grass.

Moran notes that teaching all the core subjects in the self-contained classroom allows flexibility to work with her students.

"We can take the time to work out problems and give encouragement," she says. "Our goal is to do the best we can."

Feed a cold, starve a fever?

It's that time of year once again. Sniffles, sneezes and hacking coughs become all too common during the chilly drizzle of winter months. And although doctors say there's no cure for the common cold, there are some things we can do to relieve those miserable cold symptoms.

Dr. Irene Koskan, internal medicine specialist with Hancock Medical Center, said there are a few musts when faced had-on with a nasty cold.

"A cold is a minor infection of the respiratory system. It can be caused by a number of different viruses and is essential that people with colds take the proper precautions. If not, it could develop into bronchitis or even pneumonia."

Koskan offered these tips for prevention and added cold comfort:

* Stay at home and away from crowded areas. "All this does is spread the infection to other people and place you at risk for becoming infected."

* Drink plenty of fluids. This helps dehydration and makes mucous elimination easier.

* Take medication sensibly. Aspirin, Tylenol or Ibuprofen will help relieve aches and pains associated with a cold.

* Get plenty of rest. "This is probably the most important thing to do," Koskan said. "Bed rest is absolutely vital. It helps the body overcome infections more quickly."

So, what about the old remedy: feed a cold, starve a fever?

"There's nothing to it," the doctor said. "The best remedy for a cold is preventative. But once you've got one, you can only take care of yourself and wait it out."

Although there is no need to see a physician after the onset of a common cold, Koskan said there are times when an infection worsens and should be checked by a professional.

"If chills and fever persist more than two days or if there is production of colored sputum or chest pain, a doctor should be consulted immediately. Also look for earaches and severe headaches which may indicate a bacterial infection and require antibiotics."

A cold is never fun. But with proper rest and plenty of care, a cold will not linger and life will soon return to normal.

The Mississippi Property Rights Association

John Stack, Pres.

The Mississippi Property Rights Association is a nonprofit organization which represents the interests of persons owning or leasing real property (individually or as part of a group) in the State of Mississippi. Currently this Association is attempting to provide solutions to the problems associated with the practice of deer hunting with dogs in this State. Our position is that the various problems caused by many of the dog hunting groups are a direct violation of property rights which property owners and leaseholders are entitled to under our property laws and our state constitution and in some situations also involve issues of public safety. As such, we consider these problems to constitute both Private and Public Nuisances within the legal meaning of these terms. We advocate that the uncontrolled running of deer with dogs must be eliminated and be replaced by a system of suitable restricted large tract hunting areas approved and supervised by the Department of Wildlife Conservation. We also support much stronger road hunting laws than those currently in effect.

This Association is designed to work as a vehicle to make legislators and the general public continually aware of the types of problems facing landowners and leaseholders and to encourage action to remedy them. For information concerning this Association, detach the following and send to:

Before addiction pulls you under, call the Chemical Dependency Treatment Center.

Drinkers, drug users, and their families. All of them struggle against chemical dependency. All meet its frustration head to head.

For each of them, chemical dependency is a fatal disease. And it must be treated like one.

That's why we've opened the Chemical Dependency Treatment Center at Slidell Memorial Hospital.

In this comprehensively designed recovery and rehabilitation center, experienced and certified physicians, counselors, and nurses provide well-rounded treatment, including education and counseling, to individuals and families. Formal treatment is followed by a support program that lasts at least one year.

The first step is cleansing

Treatment begins with our Detoxification Education Assessment & Referral (DEAR). Here, patients enter a process of cleansing, education, and assessment, through which our physicians and treatment team determine the best form of help: Inpatient Rehabilitation, Outpatient Treatment, or another appropriate strategy.

The focus is a chemical-free life

Inpatient Rehabilitation is a 24- to 30-day, highly focused intensive treatment program in which patients learn the steps to conducting chemical-free lives. Board Certified Substance Abuse Counselors and Registered Nurses work directly with patients in individual counseling, group therapy, discharge planning, treatment planning, and education.

relapse prevention follows initial treatment

An important part of treatment is Aftercare. Because chemical dependents sometimes relapse, group and individual education, therapy, and support sessions are conducted weekly for 12 months by experienced Substance Abuse Counselors.

Aftercare involves patients' families, who participate in a recovery program of their own.

strengthening the support system

Family Treatment is focused, in the first week, on educational groups that provide families a forum for asking questions and hearing from others with similar experiences. A specialized treatment program designed especially for them follows. Families receive information about addiction, and the support they need during the patient's recovery.

In the third week, families begin a week of intensive treatment which involves the patient. During this phase, families sort out important issues, assess their situation, and face the effects of this serious problem.

outpatient help for patients and families

Patients directed by our physicians and treatment team to Outpatient Treatment undergo education and therapy sessions on weekday evenings for 7 weeks. Board Certified Substance Abuse Counselors lead these meetings, which may involve the patient's family. Outpatients attend Aftercare for one year.

depend on us, not on drugs and alcohol

The Chemical Dependency Treatment Center is a comprehensive recovery and rehabilitation center that provides a full range of treatment services for the chemically-dependent and their families.

The pull of chemical dependency is relentless. But now there's a team you can depend on to help you stay afloat. Ours.

'Kick the Habit' for New Year's

HANCOCK WOMEN'S CLUB member Alice Winchester shows off a hand-knit afghan that she won recently. The club used the proceeds raised with the afghan to purchase gifts for 38 children whose names were taken off the Christmas Tree at Kmart.

If you are now smoking, a New Year's resolution to "kick the habit" will be the best gift you can give to yourself and to your family, said G. Boyd Shaw, MD of Jackson, president of the Mississippi Lung Association.

Cigarette smoking is the major preventable cause of increased mortality and premature disability in the United States. Smoking is a proven cause of emphysema, lung cancer and other cancers, chronic bronchitis, and coronary disease. Smoking by pregnant women is associated with low infant birth weight, increased prenatal mortality and complications of pregnancy.

Smoke from a burning cigarette, cigar or pipe can also affect the health of nearby nonsmokers, particularly young children and persons with lung or heart disease. Of the over 4,000 chemicals contained in tobacco smoke, 200 are poisonous and 15 are cancer-causing. Plainly, there is nothing healthy about inhaling hot smoke into your lungs and there is much to be gained by quitting smoking.

More than 33 million Americans have quit smoking. You can join the ever-increasing number of Americans who do not smoke.

Because cigarettes contain nicotine, smoking may be a tough habit to quit for some smokers. Nicotine is an addictive or dependence causing drug that occurs naturally in the tobacco leaf and has never been found in any other plant or material. It is usually cleared from the body within a few days after quitting smoking.

The Mississippi Lung Association, your Christmas Seal organization, provides a wide variety of educational materials and programs which teach youngsters never to begin smoking and to assist smokers in taking that important step toward a smoke-free future.

Gone are the days when everyone thought smoking was a harmless habit. Your decision to quit cigarette smoking could be the most important decision of your life. Make your resolution today and contact the Mississippi Lung Association, P.O. Box 9865, Jackson, MS 39286 or telephone 601-362-5453.

Gandy addresses graduates at USM

Former Lt. Evelyn Gandy told nearly 1,000 fall graduates at the University of Southern Mississippi Friday they should combine personal and professional leadership abilities to uplift "the present and future of society."

"Governments have been established and strengthened, millions of people have enjoyed a better way of life, civilization has progressed and is being refined by the achievements of men and women willing to go beyond their normal or unusual service," she said during the commencement address at Reed Green Coliseum.

"With your personal and professional leadership in action, yours is the power to improve, to uplift, to impact for good on the lives of individuals, families, institutions -- on the present and future of society."

Gandy, a Hattiesburg native and 1940 USM graduate, delivered her message to 991 candidates for doctoral, specialist, master's and bachelor's degrees. Now practicing law in Forrest County, she was the first woman to serve as state treasurer, insurance commissioner and lieutenant governor of Mississippi.

Also during the graduation ceremony, USM President Aubrey K. Lucas recognized Hattiesburg High School speech and debate teacher Michael Marks for his contributions to education. Marks, 31, who holds a master's degree in communications from USM, was the state Department of Education's 1988 Mississippi

Appeal issued for teachers to serve year in Philippines

Peace Corps officials said today that there is an urgent need for experienced teachers to serve one-year assignments in the Philippines as associate volunteers.

The American teachers would serve as assistants and advisors to Filipino teacher trainers for both primary and secondary educators. They would be assigned to village, provincial, municipal and national schools on the big island of Luzon in the Philippines.

"We are particularly looking for qualified substitute and retired teachers to spend a year overseas," Peace Corps Director Loret Miller Ruppe said. "They are needed to share their knowledge with their counterparts in this key Pacific nation."

Mrs. Ruppe, who calls teachers "the backbone of the Peace Corps," said that the Peace Corps is shifting its program focus from individual classroom instruction in host countries. With teacher education as the main focus today, more emphasis is being placed on formal transfer of skills to host country teachers.

While many volunteers continue to teach in classrooms around the world, other volunteers are being sought to help untrained teachers improve their skills, develop instructional materials and methodologies, and identify local resources, she said.

Teachers with at least five years of professional classroom experience are being recruited to leave for the Philippines next spring. They would take part in a pre-departure orientation in San Francisco on April 5 and arrive in the Philippines on April 9 to begin eight weeks of special training.

Peace Corps recruiters hope to attract 10 primary level educators and 20 secondary level teachers for the Philippines teacher trainer assistant positions. At the secondary level, there is a specific need for seven math teachers, seven science teachers and six English teachers to assist in the teacher training program on Luzon.

The aim of the teacher training assistants program is to reduce the severe shortage of trained teachers in the Philippines, improve the morale of faculty and staff, and improve the achievement rates of students. Although the traditional Peace Corps length of service is for two years plus training, the urgent need for teacher educators and others in scarce-skill areas has prompted the Peace Corps to organize a one-year Associate Volunteer Program.

Peace Corps volunteers must be U.S. citizens and in good health. There is no upper age limit for service. To learn more about the Teacher Education Program, call toll-free 1-800-424-8580 and ask for extension 293. There also are recruiting offices around the United States. Check your local phone directory for the one nearest you.

VITA training schedule set

If you enjoy helping other people, VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) may be just the opportunity you are looking for, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

VITA is a program that involves volunteers of all ages and from many walks of life to help people who need assistance in filling out their tax returns. In addition to actually completing the simpler tax forms for taxpayers, VITA volunteers explain the special credits and deductions people may claim and calculate any refund that may be due them. Volunteers receive free instructions and training materials at special seminars conducted at convenient locations.

The Internal Revenue Service has scheduled a series of these training sessions for persons who want to volunteer to assist the lower-income, handicapped, and elderly with the preparation of their tax returns. This service and the training are free. The training is designed to cover the preparation of forms 1040EZ and 1040A.

VITA training for Gulfport is scheduled for Jan. 10-13 at the Gaston Hewes Recreation Center at 2601 17th Street. The training classes will start at 9 a.m. and end at 4:30 p.m. each day. Persons desiring to attend the VITA training classes should contact the Taxpayer Education Coordinator at (601) 965-4142 or 1-800-424-1040.

Judge Griffin, 65, died at the Baptist Medical Center where he had been treated for cancer for the past months.

His last visit to his Louis home was three days ago according to Bay St. attorney Sam Favre. Favre described him as a 70-

Gex explained that the county is leasing the pier from Bay St. Louis American Legion Post No. 139 for 25 years so improvements could be made to it using federal grant money.

Because the improvements currently being made, including paving of the pier roadway and parking lot and installation of lighting is being funded by a federal grant, the proposal would have to be approved by numerous state and federal agencies, according to Gex.

Gex also said he had been approached by a spokesman for beachfront residents who said they were opposed to the shop.

ON PATROL

ARREST

Bay St. Louis Police arrested a Hancock Medical Center employee Friday in connection with the Christmas Day theft of $9,500 in jewelry that was stolen from a woman's purse while she was visiting her mother at the hospital.

Regina Adolph, 27, of Bay St. Louis has been charged with grand larceny, according to Investigator Tom Burleson.

Eleanor Ruth Regan reported the jewelry missing after visiting her mother at the hospital. Reportedly, while her mother napped she stepped out of the room for about 10 minutes. When she returned she discovered that someone had stolen the jewelry from her handbag which she had left in the room, Burlington said.

The room burglar said the items recovered include a four-carat diamond ring on a 14-karat gold setting band, a platinum ring with two one-carat diamonds and one half-carat diamond, a diamond necklace with seven diamonds, a half-carat diamond earring with seven diamonds, a yellow diamond watch band and a set of diamond earrings totaling three carats. The Burlington Police, assisted by Sheriff's Lieutenant Delbert Seay, recovered some of the stolen items Wednesday in Adolph's possession. The remainder of the jewelry was recovered Friday.

Adolph is being held in Hancock County Jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond.

Since becoming a Supreme Court justice, Griffin and his wife Ruth would spend the weekdays in Jackson and weekends in Bay St. Louis.

Griffin was active in the First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis.

Hancock County Sheriff Peterson said, "Judge Griffin was a real good friend with a brilliant legal mind and he never met a stranger."
